

ACGME Staff Biographies

Lorraine C. Lewis, EdD, RD
Executive Director
Review Committees for Anesthesiology, Preventive Medicine, Transitional Year

Lorraine C. Lewis, EdD, RD, joined the ACGME in 2011. She is the executive director for the Review Committees for Anesthesiology, Preventive Medicine, and the Transitional Year. Before joining the ACGME, Dr. Lewis was manager of predoctoral dental education and international programs for the Commission on Dental Accreditation; a professor in the nutrition and dietetics department at Viterbo University in La Crosse, Wisconsin; a renal dietitian with Winona Health in Winona, Minnesota; and a clinical and research dietitian with the Tomah VAMC in Tomah, Wisconsin. Recognitions and honors include: served on the American Dietetic Association's (ADA) Position Committee; served as an editor for ADA papers on home health care, nutrition and hydration in end of life care, nutritional treatment of HIV, and comprehensive school nutrition services; recipient of the Wisconsin Dietetic Association's Medallion Award. Dr. Lewis earned her EdD in higher education policy and administration from the University of Minnesota, and holds an MS in allied health and a BS in medical dietetics, both from The Ohio State University.